Ready With Plan of 1940 Farm Program

Provisions of the 1940 AAA farm program have been approved and will be made known to Virginia farmers in plenty of time for them to plan cropping operations before planting time, announces S. K. Cassell, executive officer of the State AAA committee.

Cassell explained that, according to a statement made by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, "thorough consideration was given to the present European situation and its possible effect on American agriculture when the 1940 program was drafted. The aim of this program is to maintain a production of farm commodities in this country which will balance with the demand, whatever that demand may prove to be, and to maintain and improve the fertility of our farm and. Farmers' interests are carefully safeguarded in this program, which also serves the public interest."

The provisions of the program dealing with agricultural conservation measures colsely follow those in effect this year and are based on farmer recommendations, said Cassell. The wheat allotment of 62 million acres, 55 million acres larger than the 1939 allotment, has already been announced, as have tentative wheat conservation and price adjustment payments which will total from 18 to 22 cents per bushel next year. Acreage goals for other major crops together with rates of payment will be established later in view of developing conditions. The 1940 Range Program will also be announced later.

Cassell explained that changes in the 1940 program recognize specific conditions in certain areas and emphasize soil conservation on all farms the country over. An important provision which will encourage further soil conservation measures on small farms insures that as much as $20 may be earned on every farm participating in the program. Another important conservation provision will encourage the planting of forest trees on farms by allowing farmers to earn up to $30 for tree planting, in addition to the regular soil-building allowance for the farm.

Soil-building practices have been provided to meet more adequately the needs for soil conservation, said Cassell, and special emphasis will be given to conservation of wildlife. The new provisions also extend the commercial peanut and commercial vegetable programs to more counties than in 1939.

Dedication program for the new school building in Appomattox were held Tuesday.

Fertilizer Improves Crops

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12- The number of acres of wheat that will be planted in Virginia within the next few days will be governed by the action of a war-driven market, Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, points out that the Government quotas should be adhered to because the abundant surpluses do not justify a great permanent rise in price. He warns against expansion of acreages beyond world needs that can only result in still greater surpluses and still lower prices.

Whether they abide by the quota or not, wheat growers are on a sharp look-out for the best means of getting the largest yields for the lowest cost on every acre planted. A survey released today by the National Fertilizer Association indicates that fertilizer will plan an important role in next year's yields. A poll of 32,000 farmers throughout 35 states shows that last year no who, prices were double what they are now, and that for each ton of fertilizer used Virgin farmers produced 97 extra bushels of wheat.

The personal interviews also show that wheat growers in Virginia applied over 65,000 tons of fertilizer to the 1938 crop. Because fertilizer used was of higher analysis, the increase in actual plant food applied to wheat fields bulged over 10 per cent.

The average application of fertilizer in the state was 282 pounds per acre. Virginia farmers reported an average gain of 8 cushels per acre on fertilized wheat over unfertilized wheat.

Even if the Government quotas as adhered to, it is expected that substantially more winter wheat will be put in during the next six weeks than was planted in 1938, since the Agricultural Adjustment Administration increased wheat acreage allotments 7,000,000 acres for the next year's crop.

Time For Dairy Cows

Farmers who are raising dairy cows for sale so far as practical should breed the cows in November or December to freshen in August and September when the demand for cows is at its best. The average farm cow is inclined to freshen in the spring when milk is plentiful everywhere and demand for cows is lagging. This is on account of the average heifer becoming about two years old in the spring and being thrifty enough to breed during early summer of the year before. Both demand and prices for dairy cows are considerably better during late summer and early fall then any other period during the year and farmers who wish to take advantage of this important farm income should give serious consideration to planning their operations accordingly.
